

BEGIN TO DOUBT WU'S DISPATCH

Conflicts With One Received Today Dated July Fourth.

AN APPEAL FOR HELP

Washington Officials Still in the Dark Over the Mystery at Peking.

EUROPE SURE ALL ARE DEAD

London, July 25.—[Special Cablegram]—Lord Salisbury today informed Ambassador Choate that he had every reason to believe that all the foreigners in Peking perished either July 6 or 7.

Washington, July 25.—[Special Telegram]—The navy department has received the following from Captain Thomas, senior officer commanding the squadron at Taku, dated Che Foo, July 24:

"A written message signed by Conger dated July 4 was received at Tien Tsin, July 21. It says we have been besieged two weeks in the British legation. There is danger of a general massacre by the Chinese soldiers who are shelling the legation daily. Relief must come soon if at all. The city is without a government except by the Chinese army. They are permitted to massacre foreigners in Peking. The entry of relief force into the city will probably be hotly contested."

The above dispatch from Conger can have no other effect upon the credibility of the message through Wu, save in casting a doubt upon its genuineness. It seems probable that Conger in the Wu dispatch, believed his earlier message had been received. It is also thought that Conger sent many dispatches of similar import. Minister Wu is under double guard to prevent any accidents.

Killing Boxers Tonight.
Shanghai, July 25.—[Special Cablegram]—Fugitives from the interior say the imperial troops are killing the boxers on sight saying that they deceived them into embarking in a hopeless struggle.

French Minister Is Live.
Paris, July 25.—M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, has received a telegram from the French consul at Shanghai, dated July 23, which says: "Li Hung Chang has just assured me that M. Pichon (French minister to China) is living, and he has agreed to transmit to him a message from me requesting a reply within five days."

Sultan May Send Troops.
Constantinople, July 25.—The Ikdam says the sultan is considering the subject of sending a Turkish force to China to cooperate with the powers. The sultan, the newspaper adds, is greatly affected by the barbarous acts of the Chinese.

Why Kempff Refused.
Washington, July 25.—[Special Telegram]—Admiral Kempff's refusal to help bombardaku shows that he told the allied officer: "I am not authorized to initiate any act of war with a country with which my country is at peace. My line is to protect American interests."

Gen. Chaffee Cables from Agaski.
The arrival of himself and troops in good health. He sails from Takuday. Also sends thanks for the major generalship.

LI HUNG CHANG'S WINING.

Says an Advance on Peking has a Terrible War.
Shanghai, July 25.—A station has been caused here by a report that the powers attempt to advance upon Peking every white man in Peking there is any left, will be at once slaughtered.

The reported threat is cited in the following words:
"The members of the nations are still alive, but an advance of the allied troops from Tien Tsin would probably be the death knell of every white man in Peking. The conservative element would be dely overpowered by the radicals."

Li added that any attempt to partition China would result a general uprising throughout China against the foreigners.

BRITISH ENVOY HEA FROM

Letter from Peking July Reports 44 Dead, Many Wound.

London, July 25.—The foreign office has received a dispatch from the British consul at Tientsin, dated Saturday, July 21, stating that he had just received a letter from Silas MacDonald, the British minister at Peking, and dated July 4, appealing for relief.

There were enough provisions at the legation to last a fortnight, the letter said, but the garrison was unequal to the task of holding out against a determined attack for many days. There had been 44 deaths and about double that number wounded. The foreign office thinks the dispatch does not affect the main question of the reported massacre of members of the legation at Peking.

BAYONET FIGHT.

2,000 Russians Charge Into Tien-Tsin—Still Fighting.

Shanghai, July 25.—The estimated losses of the allies thus far in the fighting at Tien-tsin are 600. Attacks on the city continue. The Russians have captured several guns and a large Chinese camp.

The Chinese retired to the intrenchments. Two thousand Russians entered, charging with bayonets. One Russian was killed and five wounded. The Chinese loss was very great.

CHINA BLOCKS TROOPS.

Ten Thousand Drilled Regulars Stand in Front of Russia's Soldiers.

Shanghai, July 25.—Three thousand Russian troops have arrived at New Chwang from Port Arthur. Their advance is blocked by a force of 10,000 Chinese regular troops well armed and drilled, and a battle is imminent. The Chinese are on the defensive, but will not permit the Russians to proceed.

CHIKU DESTROYED.

Missionary Station Gone, but the Missionaries Safe.

London, July 25.—The Church Missionary society has received a cablegram which states that the missionary station at Chiku has been destroyed by boxers. Mr. and Mrs. Barton and Miss Riddell, the cablegram says, are safe.

THINK BOERS WILL WIN

German War Experts Expect to See Lord Roberts Driven From Pretoria to Bloemfontein.

Berlin, July 25.—In German military circles the opinion prevails that Lord Roberts will be forced by the Boers to give up Pretoria and go back to Bloemfontein.

London, July 25.—[Special Cablegram]—A dispatch dated July 24 from Roberts says: "Marched to Bronkhorstspuit unopposed. French and Hutton made a wide detour to the right, on countered and drove back the enemy killing, wounding and capturing many. Lieut. Elsworth of the Australian contingent was killed. Broadwood captured five Boer wagons."

Bronkhorstspuit is forty miles east of Pretoria, half way to Middleburg, the Boers' base.

In another dispatch Roberts says: "Railroad and telegraph are again clear. With the captured supply train were two hundred Welsh fusiliers. Baden-Powell scattered the Boers at Margate. We lost six killed and nineteen wounded. Have made a general advance to the eastward. The enemy have abandoned their positions."

DR. M'DONALD HAS BEEN RELEASED

Mineral Point Physician Need Not Stand Trial—Sudden End of Remarkable Case.

Milwaukee, July 25.—Dr. Charles E. McDonald, who left the body of a child in a telescope grip at the Spiegel drug store last week, and, together with his wife, was arrested and held by the authorities, pending an investigation, was liberated yesterday by the police who came to the conclusion that the man could not be punished for his actions.

It was found that there was one old section under which he could be held, which prohibited the removal of a body from any house without first getting a permit, under penalty of a forfeiture by the person so removing the corpse of $50. But the penalty was not a fine, and to collect the amount, the $50 would have to be sued for, a judgment secured, and an attempt made to secure it. The police are a bit skeptical as to their ability to collect such a judgment from McDonald, and dropped that plan.

It would have been possible to hold McDonald on a charge of disorderly conduct, also, but as the fine would have been but $1 and costs, it did not seem worth while, and McDonald was released early this morning.

Mrs. McDonald is at the Emergency hospital, where she is recovering from the effects of a recent administration of drugs. McDonald went to the hospital, where he will attend his wife until she is able to leave.

The Goebel Trial Today.

Georgetown, Ky., July 25.—[Special Telegram]—Robert Noaks was recalled in the Goebel case and asked to fix the times he times he visited the Powers office and Taylor's office January 23, and he did so. Private Secretary Todd told of finding Yontsey and Powers in consultation, the latter with a gun across his leg.

CHINA FORCED TO TELL THE TRUTH

Probable That the Great Peking Mystery Will Soon be Explained.

WHOLE WORLD WAITING

No More Excuses; No More Lies Will be Tolerated for an Instant.

WARNING IS UNMISTAKABLE

Washington, July 25.—Within a few days, probably within a few hours the mystery of Peking is to be explained. If the foreigners within that city are alive the Chinese government must allow them to freely communicate with the outside world. If they are dead Chinese duplicity cannot much longer conceal the dread tidings.

Truth Must Now Come Out.
The United States has forced China to the wall. The truth must now come out.

Free and unrestrained communication between the United States Government and Minister Conger is made the first condition of the continuance of the friendly relations which have hitherto existed between the two governments.

Wu Feels Confident.

Minister Wu, on behalf of his government, declares China is acting in good faith, and that the foreign ministers will soon be heard from and that the dark cloud of doubt and fear will be wholly dispelled.

It is believed at the state department that this is true. There is a pervading confidence that the veil of mystery is at last to be lifted. As to whether it will disclose a great tragedy or the most phenomenal piece of diplomacy the modern world ever saw—there are differences of opinion.

An Unmistakable Warning.

President McKinley's reply to the Emperor of China, written by the hand of Secretary of State Hay, is a great document, designed to meet a most extraordinary situation.

The appeal of the emperor brought to this government an opportunity—so good a one that the president could not afford to let it go unimproved. It brought also most peculiar and delicate responsibilities, which had to be met with wisdom, with careful weighing of every word.

There was splendid opportunity to reach the privy council, the tsungli yamen, the emperor, the empress dowager and all the elements which form the existing central government at Peking with a word of warning. This warning is unmistakable and yet it contained no word of defiance or threat.

No More Excuses Will Do.

No more excuses will do. No more lies will be tolerated. The government at Peking is now confronted with an imperative. It must restore the ministers to their natural and proper condition—enable them to freely communicate with their governments—or it must acknowledge that they no longer live.

It must do the first of these things promptly, within a few hours, or otherwise the world, now waiting, hopeful but suspicious, will with one accord adopt the unwelcome alternative fact. If the world be forced to this alternative there can be but one ending, and this a war of civilization upon China and without much doubt a breaking up of the ancient empire.

World Awaits the Next Move.

It is believed in Washington that the reply of the president to the emperor's appeal is already in Peking or that it will be tomorrow. There is an understanding that telegraphic communication between Peking and Che Foo has been nearly if not quite restored. If that be true the president's dispatch may even now be in the hands of the privy council in the forbidden city. With painful eagerness the world will await the outcome.

FIGHTING IS STILL ON AT PANAMA

Over 200 Killed Since the Rebels Arrived There Last Friday—General Call to Arms.

Panama, July 25.—[Special Cablegram]—Panama is besieged by the revolutionists, and fighting continues on the outskirts. Two hundred have been killed since the rebels came here Friday. The hospitals are filled with wounded and dying. Among the former is General Lozada. The streets are deserted. A decree has been issued calling to arms all Colombians from eighteen to sixty. No American war vessel is here or at Colon.

REAL ISSUES OF PRESENT CAMPAIGN

McKinley Administration is Up For a Test Before the People.

STATEMENT BY PAYNE

Dems Will Talk Silver in West and Anti-Imperialism in the East.

HE DENIES PARAMOUNT IDEA

Chicago, July 25.—Vice Chairman Payne of the republican national committee gave out a statement yesterday which can be taken as a foreshadowing the plan of campaign to be pursued by the committee this year.

"We are all doing a lot of talking about issues," said he, "but the plain fact remains that with everything else brushed aside the main issue is the McKinley administration and on that the republican party must stand or fall. "The democrats have adopted a 16 to 1 plank for one section of the country and declared that 'imperialism' is the paramount issue for another, but when everything is said and done their platform resolves itself into an attack on what has been done at Washington during the last four years, and the answer to all their complaints from our point of view, is the McKinley administration itself."

An Aggressive Campaign.

"I must not be understood by that to mean that our campaign is to be a defensive one. On the contrary, it will be aggressive and much so. It will not excuse or defend anything President McKinley may have or may not have done, but will go out with the premise that his administration has been the best one possible under the circumstances, and invite the people to re-elect him in order that the same good government which has been obtained for the last four years may obtain for the four years to come."

"We also deny that any of the so-called issues is paramount, but are prepared to meet and beat the democrats on any issue they may raise. They will preach free silver west of the Missouri river and imperialism east of it, but they will find before they get through that they will have to discuss both on both sides of the river."

"Some people are asserting that the monetary question does not enter into the campaign this year. It does, however, and the democrats cannot dodge it. They cannot neglect it without losing what chance they have in some western states, and they cannot advocate it in those states and avoid it in others."

No Foreign Bureaus.

According to Perry S. Heath, its secretary, the national republican committee will have no foreign bureaus this year. There will be no German, Scandinavian, Polish or Bohemian bureaus auxiliary to the national committee to catch the foreign-born voters. The national committee intends to print vast quantities of campaign literature in foreign type, but the publications will be sent to the chairman of the state central committees for distribution.

Carr Reed Not Wanted.

Thomas B. Reed, formerly of Maine and now of New York, will not be asked to make any speeches during the campaign. This was decided by the republican national committee yesterday. Ex-Speaker Reed always has been an orator of account when political campaigns were on. But this year he has declared himself as opposed to expansion, and the democrats have declared in their platform that "imperialism" is the paramount issue. So after the matter was talked over, the consensus of opinion was that Mr. Reed's services on the stump would not be asked for.

MURDER AND SUICIDE

Actuated by Jealousy a Chicago Man Kills a Woman—Fatal Explosion of Chemicals.

Chicago, July 25.—[Special Telegram]—Ludwig Rasmussen this morning shot and killed Mrs. Augusta Bergenthal at the latter's home, and then suicided. It was jealousy.

Chemicals used by the Windsor Collar company, manufacturers of celluloid collars, exploded at noon in a room in which were four women and five men, and the building was set afire. Ella McLaughlin, a widow, was killed. She fell, trying to jump from a fourth story window across an area. An unknown girl was killed by the explosion, and Viola Ritter, Grace Peterson and an unknown man were fatally burned. Loss nominal.

Defense on in Jester Trial

New London, Mo., July 25.—[Special Telegram]—The defense began the submission of testimony in the Jester trial this morning. Four witnesses contradicted some essential points made by the prosecution.

PHOTOGRAPHERS IN SESSION

National Convention Opens at Milwaukee With Large Attendance.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 25.—The best attended convention the Photographers' Association of America has ever held was formally opened at the Exposition building yesterday afternoon. Mayor Rose delivered an address of welcome, which was followed by the annual address of President L. L. Stein, who said it was a crime for photographers to cut prices. Mr. Stein made a protest against professional jealousy among the members of the national association.

W. J. Scanlin read a paper on the "Progress of Photography." He said that the greatest progress was being made in this country and that this was especially the case in scientific photography. The experiments of Professor Wood of the University of Wisconsin in photographing sound waves has demonstrated to a remarkable degree the capability of photography as a record of phenomena. Professor W. O. Beck of Cincinnati spoke on "The Principles of Beauty in Art."

Mark Forest of this city gave a demonstration of the MacDonough process.

SUCKED POISON FROM WOUND

The Life of a 10-Year-Old Boy Saved by His Brother.

Baraboo, Wis., July 25.—Louis, the 10-year-old son of Albert Young, living a few miles south of this city, was bitten by a large rattlesnake yesterday. His brother who was with him sucked the poison from the wound and afterwards he was taken home and medical aid summoned. It is thought the lad will recover.

TALL ELK MARRIES MARY RED EAGLE

TWO RICH OSAGES WEDDED IN TRUE INDIAN STYLE.

The Ceremony of Courtship and Wedding Was Unique—Groom Gave 45 Ponies for the Bride—Had a Cinch on Her Father—Dog Soup for Wedding Breakfast.

Pawhuska, O. T., July 25.—Two of the richest Indians in the world were married in grand style at Pawhuska, O. T., Monday. It was the society event of the Indian world. Hundreds of the select were there. Miss Mary Red Eagle, the daughter of Chief Red Eagle, and Tall Elk, a government clerk and the heir to a fortune of over $1,000,000, were married according to the old Indian custom. Both are full-blood Osages.

Ceremony Was Unique.

The ceremony was unique, as was the courting. Tall Elk was forced to get around some pretty hard propositions before he could make terms with the father of the girl, but he at last succeeded and the old man has given his blessing, but he has not returned the price the young buck had to pay for his squaw.

It is the custom among these Indians that a young couple who love each other should not be seen together until their engagement was publicly announced. But Tall Elk persuaded the maid of his heart to wander with him in the woodland alone and there he was happy. She must have enjoyed it, too, or else she would not have taken the risk of banishment from her father's tepee if she should be discovered holding secret sessions with the son of the most hated enemy of her father.

Forty-Five Ponies for Girl

This courting was kept up for several weeks and then the young man found a way by which he could bring her father to time. He discovered, it is said, that Red Eagle had been fixing the laws to fit his own case to make money, and that if the sensation was unearthed it would mean official disgrace. He went to the father about it and told him. The old man gave his consent to the wedding immediately, but insisted that he should be paid forty-five ponies for his daughter. A little thing like the purchase of the girl did not stand between the young man and his love, so he paid over the ponies and went to courting the girl in the presence of the parents, which is the right way for the Osages.

Ceremony Was Performed.

They soon tired of this and Monday the ceremony was performed with all the pomp and dignity of a swell wedding among this tribe. At 4 o'clock in the morning six bucks appeared at the outside of the public square.

Just as the sun arose the bride, clad in dazzling robes of many colors, came from her tepee on the north side of the square. She rode a pony and her mother followed on foot. They advanced to the center of the square and the pony was turned loose and the bucks ran for it. Her mother then commenced to undress the bride and as her clothes were flung to the winds the squaws ran and gathered them up as mementoes of the event.

Carried Her to His Tepee.

Finally the bride commenced to sing the wedding song of the tribe and her lover came from his wigwam on the south side of the square and taking her in his arms carried her to his tepee. The visitors clapped their hands and later the couple ate from the same plate at the wedding breakfast, which consisted of dog soup and sacred medicine tea. By these acts they were legally married. It is probably the last marriage of the kind that will ever be celebrated.

NOME REEKS WITH FILTH AND SEWAGE

Gold Hunters in Danger of Being Swept Away by Epidemic.

SMALLPOX IS RAGING

Not a Spark of Humanity Among the 20,000 Frenzied Gold Hunters.

LAWS OF HEALTH IGNORED

Washington, July 25.—Twenty thousand people at Cape Nome City, Alaska, are in danger of death by disease. Most recent reports from the plague-stricken camp came today and describe a horrible condition of affairs that is unparalleled in the history of the Northwest.

Writing from Nome Harbor on June 29 Surgeon R. G. Ebert reports in a letter received today by Surgeon General Sternberg that within three weeks this little settlement of nets and shacks has grown from a scattered village of 2,700 to a place of 20,000 people—settlers mad with the fever for gold and entirely without regard for the welfare or the condition of their neighbors.

"Already," says the surgeon in his report, "there are 700 cases of enteric fever and thirteen known as cases of smallpox. Even these figures could not be vouched for, because there is no truth telling in this country."

Not a Spark of Humanity.

The settlement is said to reek with filth and sewage; the streets are described as being paved with decaying matter, and there is said to exist at Nome no spirit of generosity or a scintilla of interest in what happened to a majority of the people as long as this man or that man finds the treasure he is seeking.

Dr. Ebert says there are absolutely no provisions for the destruction or removal of garbage and unsanitary refuse matter. The hordes of gold seekers that have arrived have swamped the settlement, and a state of utter anarchy practically exists, with every man looking out for himself, with no care of what happens to the next man.

Probably the most hopeless feature of the entire situation is the lack of authority in Nome.

Insane With Gold Fever.

The people are so intent on getting rich in a few days that they will not give money boarded for other purposes for the cleansing of the settlement. Indeed, it is most difficult, according to Surgeon Ebert, to hire labor at any price. Wells are not dug, so insane with the gold fever are the settlers, and water is selling at 7 to 10 cents a gallon and it is very bad that.

Common laborers receive $1 an hour; mechanics $1.50 an hour and teams $10 an hour. Owing to these high prices it is almost impossible to carry out the orders of the general. All the commissioners except one have resigned or ceased to act.

General Randall, who is in charge of the military in Nome, has acted on a suggestion of the chief surgeon, Dr. Ebert, and ordered the construction of drains, destruction of garbage and the removal of filth.

Surgeon Ebert in his report today says that even this order is not being obeyed, because it takes money to carry out this plan and money can be obtained only by voluntary subscriptions.

M'KINLEY AND BRYAN WILL BOTH ATTEND

Coming National Grand Army Encampment Will Be Honored by Their Presence.

Chicago, July 25.—William Jennings Bryan is coming to the Grand Army national encampment. He has definitely accepted the committee's invitation.

President McKinley is also coming to the encampment, but there is no danger that the orbits of these two political luminaries will cross. Mr. Bryan has made it impossible. He has suggested to the committee that Thursday, August 30 is the day on which he would prefer to be the encampment's guest. President McKinley, as the program stands, will arrive Saturday, August 25, and leave Tuesday, August 28.

Another reason for Mr. Bryan's choice of a date late in the week is deducible from his letter of acceptance. The next day but one after August 30 will be September 1, Labor day, and Mr. Bryan has been invited by the labor organization to speak to them on that day. That he will do so is indicated by his letter to the Grand Army committee. In that he says:

"If it is necessary to know the day [the day on which he will be here] at once, I would suggest August 30, as that would come nearer harmonizing with a subsequent date which I have in contemplation."

Mrs. Oswald E. Muench and sons have returned to Chicago, after a month's visit with relatives in this city.

HEAVY RAINS IN ALL PARTS OF THE STATE

AS A RESULT CROPS HAVE ADVANCED VERY RAPIDLY.

The Week Was Very Favorable for Corn—Winter Wheat and Rye Mostly in Shock—Wet Interferes With Haying—Tobacco Crop Good—Potatoes in Fine Condition.

Following is the official weather and crop report for the week ending with July 24:

The mean temperature for the week was generally slightly lower than last week, and ranged from seventy degrees over the southern counties to sixty-two degrees along the northern border. The temperature during the week was quite even and no decided changes occurred.

Heavy and almost continuous rains occurred during the week over the entire southern and central portions of the state. At some points, especially in Adams, Juneau, Wood, Clarke, Columbia and Dane counties, the rainfall was excessive, the total for the week ranging from three to five inches. Over the northern portion of the state the precipitation was rather light, being generally less than one inch. Severe local storms, accompanied by high winds and hail, occurred in a few localities, resulting to considerable damage to crops in limited areas. The rainfall during the past few weeks has been sufficient to thoroughly saturate the soil and as a result all growing crops have advanced with great rapidity.

The week was very favorable for corn. The heavy rains except in a few localities, have not washed the fields to any great extent, and the present condition of the crop warrants the prediction of a large yield. Early plantings are in tassels and in some sections the silk is beginning to appear. Thus far the corn is generally free from smut.

Winter wheat and rye are mostly in shock. The excessive rains and high winds in some sections caused some damage.

Very little harvesting in oats and barley was done during the week, on account of the wet weather, although oats and barley are generally ready to cut in the southern and central counties.

The heavy and continuous rains have flooded marshland and interfered with haying. The crop on upland is very light.

Pastures have continued to improve and are now in excellent condition. No hail was reported from the tobacco section during the week. The crop is making very rapid growth, and promises a large yield.

Potatoes continue to make excellent growth and there is now sufficient moisture in the soil to fully mature the crop.

Recent rains have filled the reservoirs and the present condition of the cranberry crop is good, although some damage was done by frost on June 30.

The berry crop has been improved by the rains. Apples continue to fall badly, and the crop will not be large.

LA PRAIRIE

La Prairie, July 25.—Farmers in this vicinity claim that the recent rains have been a benefit and a detriment. Pastures, tobacco, corn, etc., are looking very much refreshed, while the grain is becoming discolored. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korn of Janesville, spent Sunday with Will Howard and family. Rev. Huey of Rock Prairie, will speak at the Grange hall next Sunday, July 29, at 3 p. m. Binding of the grain is nearly finished, and the buzz of the threshing machine is heard. The L. M. B. S. will meet at the hall next Thursday afternoon. Ice cream will be served. Mrs. Murray's remains were taken to Beloit for interment.

HE WILL PUT UP A NEW BUILDING

W. B. Harvey Will Build a Modern Two Story and Basement Block on North Main Street.

A modern two story and basement building will be built by W. B. Harvey on the lot recently purchased by him at 35 North Main street, north of the second hand store of Crossman & Waggoner.

The plans call for two stories and a basement. The front will be of white brick with stone side walls. The first floor will be arranged as a store and the second story as a flat.

The new building will be a great improvement to that part of the street, as the lot has been occupied by a dilapidated old frame building for many years.

RAIN CAME DOWN QUIET AND STEADY

Not a Moderate Fall Either, But Copious Enough to Wet the Soil Deep.

The great tobacco crop of Rock county is certain. The drenching rains of yesterday saved it without prejudice. It rained in lower Michigan and Wisconsin, throughout Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and a little in Colorado. Not a moderate fall either, but copious enough to wet the soil deep down.

In Janesville an inch and a half fell, and an inch was recorded very generally over the territory specified. There was no wind anywhere, except as there were local thunderstorms.

The rains came down quietly and steadily, soaking the earth, but not damaging the crops. This stormless condition was produced from the winds blowing from the northeast to the north of the region affected and from the southwest to the south of said region. It was dry, however, in Minnesota and the Dakotas, and nearly so in Nebraska. The rain commenced at four in the morning yesterday and continued to 2:23 in the afternoon. It cleaned the streets and purified every surface, searching out dirt and impurities and washing them away. In Janesville, 1 1/2 inches fell; in Detroit, 1 inch; in St. Louis, 1 1/2 inches; in Kansas City, 2 inches; in Davenport something more than one inch and in Indiana something less.

MARTIAL LAW WILL CONTINUE.

Cape Colony Assembly Refuses to Repeal—More Money for the War.

Cape Town, July 25.—In the Cape assembly the government indignantly refused to accept a motion in favor of the repeal of martial law in Cape Colony. Mr. Rose-Innes, attorney-general, expressed the readiness of the government to repeal the law whenever repeal should become practicable, but said that the time had not yet arrived. The house cheered the government's decision.

London, July 25.—The supplementary estimates necessitated by the prolongation of the war in South Africa amount to £11,500,000, making a total of £34,500,000 voted for this purpose, and bringing the total army estimates up to £70,209,153.

London, July 25.—An official dispatch received here from Cape Town says: "The railway northward is now clear of Boers. The line is slightly damaged, but will soon be clear. Capt. Fowler proceeds tomorrow to repair the telegraph."

FAMILY ESCAPES CREMATION.

Fire Discharges a Gun and the Nola Awakens Them.

Madison, Wis., July 25.—The family of John Loy in South Madison was saved from probable cremation by the explosion of a loaded shotgun yesterday. A fire that broke out in the house from some unknown cause at 3:30 a. m., spread until the flames enveloped the gun and ignited the powder it contained. The discharge awoke the family of five members just in time to save them from death.

Literary Notes For August McClure's.

"A prisoner among Filipinos" is the title of Lieut. Commander James C. Gilmore's account of his extraordinary experience in the Philippines, which begins in the August McClure's. Lieut. Gilmore was captured by savage tribes while out in a small boat with a scouting party on the east coast of Luzon. He had more than one narrow escape from death. For several months these men traveled hundreds of miles through the heart of Luzon, enduring unspeakable hardships, with no prospect of escape from an awful fate at the hands of bloodthirsty Tagals. The illustrations by W. R. Leigh after the author's own sketches are marvelously graphic.

Since the appearance of the Jungle Book animal stories have become popular, but it is doubtful whether anyone ever tried to tell a story about a porcupine. In the August McClure's, however, Mr. William Daveport Hulbert tells about a porcupine living in the woods of Michigan and describes his mischievous escapades, his adventures with human and brute foes, and the misfortunes that befell him in his old age, as if he were a real human being. This article is illustrated with pictures from photographs by A. R. Dugmore.

"An International Wheat Corner," by J. D. Whelpley, in August McClure's, gives a somewhat startling revelation of a proposition not long ago by the Russian government to the United States, whereby the two nations should control the white supply of the entire world and fix its price at a uniform rate which should never fluctuate. These details have never before been made public.

Josiah Flynt and Francis Walton begin their "True Stories from the Under-World" in the August McClure's, with "In the Matter of His Nibs." The chief characters in the story are a detective, several thieves and a New York police captain. The stories are illustrated by studies from actual types in the Rogues' Gallery.

The mid summer fiction number of McClure's Magazine will contain contributions by Frank H. Spearman, Jack London, Ian MacLaren, E. S. Martin and others, in addition to several articles of unusual interest. The cover, by Louis Loeb, is one of the most attractive that this magazine has ever had.

THE ROCK COUNTY NORMAL INSTITUTE

ANNUAL MEETING IN JANESVILLE BEGINSON AUG. 6.

Conductors are H. L. Terry, A. P. Hallis, Mary C. Holt and the Two County Superintendents—Official Call and Program For This Interesting Event.

Our annual normal institute for 1900 will be held at the High school building in Janesville. It will begin August 6 and continue three weeks.

The conductors are H. L. Terry, A. P. Hallis, Mary C. Holt and county superintendents.

President Albert Salisbury will give a free lecture on the evening of August 15th.

The course pursued will cover reading, geography, arithmetic, grammar, United States history, physiology, school management and pedagogy, elements of agriculture, library reading and school law.

Bring with you such text books as you have on the above named subjects the manual, and a few cents with which to buy a song book.

The elegant library belonging to the High school as well as the one belonging to the Rock County Teachers Reading Circle, will be at the disposal of the institute with the proviso that no book belonging from the High school library shall be carried from the library room.

Reading matter, together with a syllabus of the work to be done in the various branches, is preparing in book form. It will be distributed free of cost to members of the institute.

The institute will be sectioned on the basis of experience. Enough classes will be organized in each subject so that no class will be over large.

On the first day work will begin at ten o'clock. After that it will begin each day at eight o'clock and close at half past four o'clock.

No fees will be charged.

Teachers who are perfect in attendance will be exempt from examination in the first superintendent district on third grade branches, with standings of seventy per cent. or above; provided they hold unexpired certificates.

Questions for the full examinations will be made up during the institute. They will be selected largely from questions which shall be discussed during the daily recitations.

Last year the state department congratulated us on having the best institute (with possibly one exception) in the state. Shall we rank one this year?

Parties wishing to board teachers will please notify me, stating price. Teachers desiring assistance in procuring board will also notify me.

"And they stood every man in his place round about the camp."

Examinations for certificates will be held at:

Janesville, August 24-25.

Evansville, August 27-28.

Edgerton, August 29-30.

Orfordville, August 31 to September 1.

A FRAGMENT.

Sweet as the daffodil, splendid as the south,
Love touched with speech, Boccaccio's golden mouth;
Joy thrilled and filled its utterance full with song,
And sorrow smiled on doom that wrought no wrong.
A sterner luster of lordlier music rose
Beyond the swarming bar of seas and snows
When Chaucer's thought took life and light from his.
And England's crown was one with Italy's,
Lottiest and last, by grace of Shakespeare's word,
Arose above their quivering spheres a third,
Arose and flashed and faded, song's deep sky
Saw Shakespeare pass in light, in music die.
No light like his, no music, man might give
To bid the darkened sphere, left songless, live.
—Algernon Charles Swinburne.

A CLEVER MAKE UP.

Story of a
Fancy Dress Ball.

Henry Apps of Hoxton completed the fixing of the wires on the lawn of Hasleigh court. He looked up at the dim light in the dressing room and chuckled softly as he bent the last yard of wire.

"A trip in time," says Mr. Apps, "saves nine."

He threw the rope ladder gently in the air, and at the first effort it caught the projecting nail.

"Once on board the lugger," quoted Mr. Apps facetiously, as he mounted the rope ladder, "and the girl is mine."

He opened the window very gently and soon stood inside the dressing room. Near the table in the corner of the room was an iron safe.

"Well, I'm jiggered!" exclaimed Mr. Apps. He loosened the flaps of his fur cap and mopped his brow with the back of his hand. "Well, I'm jiggered! If they haven't been and left the key in it for me, I might have saved myself a lot of trouble if I'd knowed."

Mr. Apps swung open the heavy door of the safe and listened to the music down stairs. Young Lady Staplehurst was giving, as Mr. Apps very well knew, a dance, a fancy dress dance, on her return from the continent after her term of widowhood.

"I'll just see first of all," he said, "that the coast is absolutely clear, and then—then for a bagful."

Henry Apps stepped out into the broad passage. He slouched, with his jimmy sticking out of his capacious side pocket, a few steps toward the stairs. Suddenly a girl's figure turned the corner.

"Eless my 'art!" cried Mr. Apps. "Why, how do you do?" said the young lady, stepping forward. She gave a soft laugh that was very pleasant. "This is really delightful. Do you know, I recognized you in spite of the costume?"

She held the hand of Mr. Apps for a moment, causing that gentleman to gasp for breath, and catch one of the maids.

"Just bring me a pencil and a card," she said, "I must arrange for a carriage to take Captain Norman back to his hotel in the morning. I wasn't sure that he would come."

"I can walk," remarked Mr. Apps, with restored self-possession.

"I won't hear of it. When shall we say, now?"

"Say in an hour's time," said Mr. Apps. "I can go up stairgain alone, change my togs and do all want to."

"And can't you stay longer?"

She gave the card to the maid and ordered it to be dispatched once.

"I've got a busy night before me," urged Mr. Apps exsingly. He thought of his dog waiting on the lawn and feared it might give an inopportune bark. Besides, the life was still open, and the diamonds were waiting for him. He had noticed with satisfaction that Lady Staplehurst was wearing none.

"You were always an active man, captain."

"Always a-doing something," agreed Mr. Apps. "If it isn't oueling, it's another." He shook his head reflectively. "I often wonder I don't rite a book about it all."

"I don't believe you wtknow anybody here, Captain Norm," she said, as they walked down stairs, "but I couldn't help sending you card, seeing how friendly we were on the Peshawar. Do you remember those evenings on deck in the Red?"

She was really a very flywing woman, and in her costume she looked extremely well.

"Do I not?" said Mr. Apps, with much fervor. "Shall I ever forget 'em?"

"And then the journey to Brindist, you know, and that rum little German—you remember him?"

"He was a knockout, it German was."

"And the girl who play the banjo, and—"

"It was great," agreed Mr. Apps—"great."

The large ballroom was full. A small covey of brightly dressed young people flew toward the rag hostess to complain of her temporary absence from the room, and a broadshouldered gondolier shook hands with her and took up her card with something of an air of proprietorship.

"I thought I had left thee in the—excuse me." The youngest took back her card from the gondolier. "I am engaged to Captain Puan. You don't know him? Allow!"

"Pleased to meet you said Henry Apps. "Ow's the worlding you?"

"That's an original coshe of yours, Captain Norman," remarked the gondolier. "I don't know it I've ever seen anything so darling before."

"Well, wot of it?" asked Mr. Apps, with sudden crossiveness. "Wot's the odds to you? I like to wenz? You needn't thirroure!"

"Captain Norman," broosed the young hostess laughing "you must not overdo the part. Look here, I've put your name down for this waltz, but if you like we'll sit it out—that is, if you promise to keep up that diverting east end talk. I like it. Do you think you can manage to do so?"

"Rather," said Apps.

"And it is a capital make up, Captain Norman," she went on. "Do you know that at first, just for one moment, I thought you were a real burglar."

"Fancy that now!" said Apps. He was relieved at seeing an obvious way out of his difficulty. "There's nothing like doing the thing in a proper, strite-forward way."

"And," said Lady Staplehurst, with her fan on his arm as they walked across the room, "you have got the east end accent capitally."

"Tain't so dusty, is it?"

She beckoned to the gondolier. "Captain Norman and I are great friends," she said in an explanatory way. "He has not been long home from abroad, and he knows scarcely any one."

"Not a blessed soul," echoed Mr. Apps.

"Isn't it capital?" asked Lady Staplehurst of the gondolier delightedly. "How much more interesting it would be if every one would only talk to me in their character!"

"Well, blow me," said Lady Staplehurst, screwing her pretty mouth in her effort to imitate the cockney's accent—"blow me if this ain't a fair take—I mean like dahl!" she laughed. "It's no use, Captain Norman, I can't talk as you can."

"It's a gift," said Mr. Apps. "That's what it is."

"You don't want to be introduced to anybody here, I suppose?"

"Not me."

"You have heard of—"

She pointed in the direction of the gondolier.

"All I want to."

"He's really making a big name in the house, you know. I watch his career with great interest."

"Thinks a jolly lot of himself."

"Oh, I think a lot of him, too," remarked Lady Staplehurst pleasantly. "And is that a jimmy sticking out of your jacket pocket? This is indeed realism. You don't know how it works, I suppose?"

"Well, I've got a kind of hidden," said Mr. Apps. "Look 'ere. You put this end in, and—"

Mr. Apps found himself getting quite excited in the explanations that he gave. It was a new sensation to meet one who showed an intelligent interest in his profession, and he could not help feeling flattered. Looking up, he saw the gondolier gazing at him.

"He don't look 'appy, that chap," said Mr. Apps.

"Will you excuse me for one moment?"

"Wot are you going up to?" he said apprehensively.

"I want to speak to him."

"Oh," with relief, "I don't mind that!"

While Lady Staplehurst was making the gondolier resume his ordinary expression Mr. Apps thought and thought. The couple promenading after the waltz looked curiously at him.

"You are in the worst fix you were ever in," "Enery," said Mr. Apps. "You're 'aving 'em on toast, you are, but you'll be glad to get up stairs agen. You want them diamonds, that's what you want. Time means money to you, 'Enery."

Lady Staplehurst hurried toward the doorway. A murmur of amazement went through the room as the guests saw a new arrival in the costume of a police constable accompanied by a man in plain clothes. Mr. Apps, thinking over his exploits, gazing abstractedly at his boots, regretting their want of polish, did not see them until the plain clothes man tapped him on the shoulder.

"What, Apps again!" exclaimed the man.

"Yus," said the burglar discontentedly. "Yus, it is Apps agine, Mr. Walker. And vurry glad you are to see him, I've no daht."

"Always a pleasure to meet a gentleman like you," said Mr. Walker cheerfully, as he conducted him to the doorway. "I've wanted to run up against you before."

Much commotion in the ballroom at the diverting little scene. General agreement that Lady Staplehurst was a perfect genius at entertaining.

"But, loveliest," said the gondolier confidentially to Lady Staplehurst. "Isn't this carrying a joke rather too far? That's a real detective."

"I know," said the loveliest girl, trembling now a little. "That's a real burglar too."

"A real!"

"Yes, yes. Don't make a fuss. I don't want the dance spoiled. Take me down to supper, like a good fellow,"—Columbian.

A Skater's Darling.

Few feats of skating have ever excelled the exploit of one of Napoleon's officers performed shortly after the fight at Jena in 1806. The emperor dispatched an officer to Marshal Mortier requiring him to seize certain important towns without delay. When the officer arrived at the mouth of the Elbe, where the river is 7½ miles wide, he was threatened with serious loss of time. The river was just covered with ice, therefore to row over was out of the question. He could not cross by the nearest bridge without going 20 miles out of his way on roads heavy with snow, and he grudged the time that would thus be wasted. So he resolved to skate across the thin, freshly formed ice. Had he tried walking he would have sunk at once, but by skimming along on his skates at the top of his speed he got over the river both dry and unharmed. By this daring if dangerous deed he saved six hours, did what Napoleon bade him do and won great credit for his bold and clever exploit.

Mondovi Herald—The stories that are being circulated so industriously that Mr. La Follette has turned his back upon reforms he has been advocating for many years and made an alliance with the railroad companies, Henry C. Payne and Charles F. Pfister, and that he will be a tool and representative of their interests when elected governor, are so foolish and absurd as to hardly be deserving of notice. Mr. La Follette has made no alliance with anyone. His candidacy is absolutely independent. He is unencumbered by any trades or promises either expressed or implied. He will enter upon the discharge of the duties of the office of governor, if nominated and elected, without any handicap. If Mr. La Follette is the political trickster and trader that those stories make him out to be, he could not have gotten so close to the people, and that is what makes his candidacy so invulnerable. He stands just where he has always stood—for equitable taxation, a primary election law, against a corrupt lobby, the anti-pass law and other well-known reforms, and nothing will swerve him from these principles.

By the retirement of Assistant Division Frederick R. Moulton the C. & N. W. company loses a good and faithful employee. Mr. Moulton has made a splendid record during his twenty-seven years service, but in discharging his duties to the best advantage of his employers he neglected his own best interest—his health—and as the result must now lay down his work and take a long rest. His many friends will hope that his recovery will be rapid, and complete.

As long as grass grows and water runs, there will be talk of "political rings," but in the future, as in the past, it will be all talk. Everyone admits that all should take an interest in politics, yet if they do, the ring cry is always raised.

It didn't take a Chicago grand jury long to indict Policemen Mosher and Sheehan. The grand jury system is all right in such cases and never fails to effect a cure after all other remedies have been tried unsuccessfully.

The Kentucky Press Association visited Milwaukee today and the stuff that made Kentucky famous was subordinated for the time being in favor of the stuff that did the trick for Milwaukee.

Racine Journal—The papers in this district which have honored Mr. Whitehead are doing no obstructive opposition to La Follette, and in fact recognize his candidacy will be successful.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says the state officers should be renominated without exception. The Sentinel is right. Harmony that doesn't harmonize is not a popular brand.

Bluff Senator Stebbins, who believed passes were all right and voted against the anti-pass law, was, however, the last to pass out of the gubernatorial race.

And China, too, turned to Uncle Sam

when in trouble. "When in doubt, go to headquarters," appears to be the motto of all Europe.

Senator Stebbins has withdrawn from the gubernatorial race, and Mr. La Follette now has the field all to himself.

The Racine Journal got out a splendid special edition a few days ago. The Journal never does things by halves.

NANSEN'S NEW EXPEDITION.

His Oceanographic Researches in Northern Waters This Summer.
Dr. Nansen has written to Petermann's Mittheilungen that he is about to start north on a voyage which is in no sense a polar expedition, but will be devoted to the study of sea depths between Norway, Iceland, Jan Mayen and Spitzbergen. He says he hopes to obtain with the newest instruments exact determinations of the temperature and specific gravity of the sea water at all depths. He intends to give his entire attention to this work, and accordingly Dr. J. Hjort will be in charge of the expedition.

The government has placed a steamer called the Michael Sues, launched last April, at the disposal of the expedition. Its cruise this summer will be part of the work assigned to Sweden in the scheme of international marine researches determined upon at a recent scientific congress at Stockholm. Dr. Hjort will himself conduct the study of the ocean fauna at various depths.

Dr. Nansen says that the results will be valuable to him, as they will probably complete and clear up his researches during the Fram expedition.

Ladysmith's Fame.

The Canadian postal department has opened an office in North Victoria county, Ont., to be known as Bullar, and the name of Upper Thorne Center, near Colongue, has been changed to Ladysmith, taking effect on the day of the relief of Ladysmith in South Africa, says the Philadelphia Record. Another Ladysmith is to be opened in western Ontario and a third in British Columbia.

And the Pole is at his head.

The Western Giant is dreaming:
Perhaps it were not best
To venture too near the sleeper
Nor disturb him in his rest.
For his teeth are clenched together,
And he mutters under his breath,
And on his face is written now
A vision of life and death.

The Western Giant is waking:
He stretches forth his arm,
And the turbulent nations are silent
And he smites with alarm.
All breathless they watch his waking,
Then turn them to flee in vain!
The wreckage of a hostile fleet
Has strewn the Spanish main.

The Western Giant has awakened:
Arise, Europe, and fight!
And stand by your guns, ye Franks and Huns,
And ye Cossack cavalry!
And the tung-tung-tung-tung tremble,
And the speechless Turk must pay,
While he buckles his Nicaraguan belt
And waits in the fray.
—John H. Brown in New York Sun.

Copp's Hill.

In the northeastern part of Boston, Mass., is an elevation that became of historic interest from stirring scenes of which it was some time a center during the revolutionary war. During the early part of that troubled period it was occupied by a British fort, which threw such an incessant fire into Charlestown at the battle of Bunker Hill that the town was set ablaze. Several of the early Puritan ministers are buried on the hill, and the ancient cemetery is reverentially preserved.

Longest Lightning Rod.

Bavaria boasts that it has the longest lightning conductor in the world. It rises some yards above the top of the meteorological station on the Zugspitze, the highest point in the German empire, and runs down the side of the mountain to the bottom of the Hohenlath, where there is running water all the year round. The length of the rod is five and a half kilometers, nearly three miles and a half.

Method of Preparing Corks.

Corks that have been steeped in vaseline are said to be an excellent substitute for glass stoppers, without their disadvantages. They are not affected by acids or chemical fumes, and they do not become fixed by a blow or by long disuse.

Brilliant Before Storms.

Glow-worms are much more brilliant when a storm is coming on than at other seasons. Like many other mysteries of nature, this curious circumstance has never been explained.

OUR GUESTS FROM CUBA

Diversified Characteristics of the Teachers at Cambridge.

THEIR SYMPATHY AND FRIVOLITY.

Innocent Desire to Know What Things Cost—Their Energy and Their Languor—Frankness About Their Family Affairs—The Girls Declared Awkward in Dancing.

It takes no gift to perceive that the Cuban teachers now in Cambridge possess characteristics which are strikingly diversified, says the New York Sun. They are at once so gay and so sad, so indolent and so industrious, so confidential and so reserved, so enthusiastic and so phlegmatic, so frank and so reticent, so graceful and so awkward! A certain Radcliffe cottage girl chaperon lives with her charges in a pleasant house on one of those streets behind Christ church which, as all Harvard men will remember, are most easily reached by the convenient little alley which runs past that old burying ground where repose the dust and ashes of a number of our civil and Revolutionary war heroes.

Somehow the Cubans got it into their heads that these men had perished in the struggle for Cuba Libre. The result was that that method of reaching home had to be abandoned. Each individual senorita would otherwise have insisted upon staying indefinitely to weep over the graves of the dead. They are so sympathetic that when one of their number, whom most of them do not even know, received the other day a telegram that her mother was ill the whole Cuban band was dissolved in tears. Yet from all this lachrymal indulgence a snatch of gay music, a mazurka played on a cracked piano by one of their number, will bring them back in a brief five minutes.

And if they are indolent and procrastinating they are also furiously energetic. They spend hours in dolce far niente and in arranging their toilet for the slightest festivity, but they will study on the stairs by the dim hall lamp long after they are supposed to be in bed, and they frequently rise as early as 5 in the morning to attack an English lesson. Before the school sessions opened they couldn't be got up before 9.

What a Cuban senorita hasn't told her sympathetic chaperon about herself and her family at the end of 15 minutes' acquaintance isn't in the least worth knowing. One girl had invited her social Achaeta to come and see her in Cuba next summer five minutes after their first meeting! Yet concerning many commonplace things these damsels are extremely reserved. As for enthusiasm—well, their self-impelled Fourth of July tribute to Washington shows what they can do in this direction. And they will raise vivas any time and anywhere for Alexis Frye. Yet they say very little, considering that they are country folk who have, many of them, never before been more than a few miles from home—about the elaborateness with which they are being entertained here Los Estudios Unidos is "vera uca plaza"—that's about all.

"Guanito" said the senorita as she entered the room and, without a moment's hesitation, walked up to a pretty American in a muslin gown. "I like that. How much?" The American was caused to such Li Hung Chang interrogations, so she merely remarked that her mother had bought the dress for her. This quite satisfied the Cuban girl. She was absolutely unconscious that she had said anything unusual or that her American guide had evaded any query. They have almost all of them two months' salary to spend and they want to gather such information as shall enable them to use it to good advantage; hence their naive questions. Yet they never think of telling their chaperons how much they paid for their clothes.

Surely one might reasonably have expected that these languorous beauties, with their natural grace of figure, should dance divinely. But they don't. Their Habanera (Havana dance) and their Zapateo (a kind of jig) are as ugly in movement as their dancers are awkward in a vain attempt to make the things beautiful. The men lead badly and the girls are not even a little bit attractive as they jerk through the stiff measures. As for the music, it is as slumbargy as a hurdy gurdy overture in extremis. Nor do the Cubans seem to get a lot of enjoyment out of these dances. They look through them all as solemn as the best man at a wedding and they speak never a word to each other as they perform their marionette-like revolutions.

But they are gorgeous when they go to a ball. The girls spend two hours and a half on their toilet and then come down with face and neck a ghastly white from powder. They can't understand why Americans neglect to avail themselves of this aid to charm. "You do look pretty," one group chorused to their chaperon at the last ball, "but why not some powder, just un poquito, only the weel'st bit?" But she was firm as she explained that in America we don't use it like that—at least some of us don't.

WILL HURT THE LUMBER JACK

Stranding of Logs Will Greatly Curtail Output of Next Winter.

The harvest of the lumber jack next winter does not promise to be so bountiful as was that of last year, says the Superior Telegram. In fact the outlook for work in the woods is quite poor, comparatively speaking. The logs stranded in the woods, it is claimed, are enough to run the Superior, Duluth and Ashland mills for one third of the season of 1901. A prominent lumberman says of the situation:

"Unless there shall be a marked improvement in the demand for lumber, there will certainly be a great falling off in the logging operations next winter. This is especially true if the logs which are hung up on account of low water are not gotten down this fall in time to be saved. There are 240,000,000 feet of logs in the streams of the head of the lakes and Ashland districts, and if these remain in the water all winter, it means that we already have enough logs on the banks to keep the saws of both districts busy for about one-third of next season. The estimated sawmill capacity of these two districts is 840,000,000 feet a season and with 240,000,000 feet of logs already cut, there will be a big start in hand for the season, which will not depend upon next winter's logging operations."

"After September 1 there is little lumber sold here usually to go forward the same season. It may be different this year, because comparatively little has been sold to go forward thus far."
